

The School of Applied Mathematics of Fundação Getúlio Vargas – EMap announces the opening of a position of Professor in Applied Mathematics, that entails teaching in its Undergraduate and Graduate programs and engaging in research in the area. Candidates with a research interest in Complex Systems Modeling are especially welcome. Applications should be sent to emap@fgv.br until May 31th 2012. The decision will be made by July 13th 2012.

Required documents:

- Research plan;
- Curriculum Vitae containing at least:
 - Updated publication list;
 - Date of birth;
 - Institution where PhD was granted and completion date;
 - Thesis title and adviser's name.

Candidates should submit recommendation letters from at least three well known researchers (free form) which should be sent to emap@fgv.br.

About EMap and FGV

Fundação Getúlio Vargas (FGV) is a distinguished and internationally renowned Brazilian higher-learning institution that dedicates its forces to the intellectual development of the nation. The recently created School of Applied Mathematics (EMAp) has as its main goal to contribute to the effort of FGV towards innovation through the use of Mathematics its numerous areas of application, especially the Applied Social Sciences. Please visit the websites at www.fgv.br and www.fgv.br/emap for more details.